

Write your blog

A word cloud composed of numerous blue words of varying sizes and orientations. The words are related to education, business, and professional development. A prominent blue line drawing of a person's head and shoulders, facing right, is superimposed over the left side of the word cloud. The words visible include: method, education, improvement, analyze, teacher, trainer, concept, theory, management, strategy, coach, boss, work, seminar, drill, govern, presentation, manager, plan, practice, option, tutor, instruction, business, improve, supervise, mentor, instruct, and analysis.

Welcome

Writing blog posts is easier than you think. So let's start

- Ann Jaloba HPD Acc HypSupp

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced in any form (including electronically) without the written permission of the copyright owner except in accordance with the provisions of the Copyright Designs and Patents Act 1988. Application for permission to reproduce should be directed to Ann Jaloba

Published by Ann Jaloba Publishing 26 Tapton Mount Close, Sheffield S10 5DJ © 2015 All Rights Reserved. <http://writeyourweightlossbook.com>

copyright © Ann Jaloba 2015

the moral right of the author have been asserted

Although the publisher has made every effort to ensure that the information herein was correct at press time, the author and publisher do not assume and hereby disclaim any liability to any party for any loss, damage, or disruption caused by errors or omissions, whether such errors or omissions result from negligence, accident, or any other cause.

(This is not intended as a substitute for the medical advice of physicians. The reader should regularly consult a physician in matters relating to his/her health and particularly with respect to any symptoms that may require diagnosis or medical attention.

How the lessons work

Work through each lesson and you will soon have

A stock of information

A system to keep it on hand so you can access what you want when you need it

A way of writing smoothly and easily

Legal matters

NOTICE: You DO NOT Have the Right to Reprint or Resell this Manual!

You Also MAY NOT Give Away, Sell or Share the Content Herein

All Rights Reserved

No part of this report may be reproduced or transmitted in any form whatsoever, electronic, or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, or by any informational storage or retrieval system without express written, dated and signed permission from the author.

Disclaimer and/or Legal Notices:

The information presented herein represents the view of the author as of the date of publication. Because of the rate with which conditions change, the author reserves the right to alter and update her opinion based on the new conditions. The report is for informational purposes only and we take no responsibility for the content of any product published or otherwise produced using this course. While every attempt has been made to verify the information provided in this report, neither the author nor her affiliates/partners assume any responsibility for errors, inaccuracies or omissions. Neither are we responsible for the working of outsourced or proprietary hardware or software. If advice concerning legal or related matters is needed, the services of a fully qualified professional should be sought. This report is not intended for use as a source of legal advice. You should be aware of any laws that govern publishing

Why you should never cancel

There are many reasons why you should stick with your membership, it's not very long and it gives you great training. If you keep quitting one thing and going to another you'll never get anywhere) but there is an all-important reason that we have to warn you about from the beginning. Each of your lessons is sequential and delivered by autoresponder. That means, if you decide to cancel and rejoin at some point in the future, you'll have to start all over again with the very first lesson. There is no "picking up where you left off" with this programme. So I strongly encourage you to stick with this for the duration. . If you follow all the steps sequentially at the end you will write great blog posts..

WANT MORE HELP THEN JOIN MY “INNER CIRCLE”
COACHING PROGRAMME and get PRIVATE ACCESS TO ME AND DAILY COMMUNICATION

While it is impossible for us to personally interact with all the members on the Write Your Blog programme I can offer this service

I WILL TAKE YOU BY THE HAND ,ANSWER YOUR QUESTIONS, GIVE YOU HONEST FEEDBACK AND HELP ON YOUR WRITING
YOU CAN ASK ME A QUESTION ON YOUR BLOG EVERY DAY AND I WILL ANSWER WITHIN HOURS. AND IF YOU WANT TO WRITE A BOOK I CAN HELP YOU WITH THAT AS WELL. YOU CAN SIGN UP FOR AS LONG AS YOU NEED ME. FOR ONE MONTH OR ONE YEAR. WHATEVER SUITS YOU.

for just £50 a month

What you can expect to achieve

You will have 2 blog posts, written by me, sent to you every week as part of your membership. This means you can start blogging today. You can use these posts in any way you want.

But you will want to make your blog unique to you. So, in addition to the blogs I am introducing you to a system for writing your own unique blog posts.

Follow these lessons and you will soon be writing your own blog posts with ease and quickly.

Lesson 5 Using what others are saying 1

You know you are not the only person blogging or posting on your subject. The world of communication now is all about sharing, so rather than seeing this as competition, see it as an advantage.

Start by spending some time finding the very best that is out there on your subject.

Different bloggers, or Facebook posters, or writers will have different approaches and talents so be prepared to look at different things from different sources.

Here are some types of content which your readers might like

- Good, serious evidenced research with links and references
- A good news source with all the latest developments in your area.
- A lively community, with robust but respectful debate and exchange of ideas.

You are unlikely to find all these in one place, but on the other hand you have limited time and cannot spend your whole life on blogs and social media.

So carve out a few hours and aim to select three or four blogs, sites or groups. Join a group if that seems appropriate, that is if it has the sort of content which you think your readers would like.

Bookmark or save these places and make some time (you don't need long, a couple of hours should do it) to visit every week.

Lesson 5 Using what others are saying 2

You may find it helpful to choose what type of content you want to use most on your blog and focus your attention on the places that feature this type of content.

The mindset: You as an intrepid explorer

Keep in mind that you are working as an explorer on behalf of the people who read you. If you do this well you will build up a reputation as a 'go-to' person who keeps up with the latest news, research gossip and goings on in your area.

So that's how to find content which you want to share with your readers, Now I am going to help you use it well.

How to use other people's content ethically

Remember ALWAYS ACKNOWLEDGE YOUR SOURCE AND NEVER PASS ANYTHING YOU POST OFF AS YOUR OWN IF YOU DIDN'T WRITE IT.

I'd never do that, I bet you are saying, but it is easier than you think to steal (and that is what it is) someone else's work without even realising it.

Lesson 5 Using what others are saying 3

So I am going to give you a foolproof way to keep your ethical standards as high as you want them to be.

How to organise and track content you are collecting

First of all, set up a folder on your computer called, “content from other sources”.

Then make a set of sub folders, these can be type of content (informative, funny, research etc) or subject-based (therapy, practical advice etc)

For each piece of content make a separate word document

Give this a title

Copy and paste the content you want

THEN (this is the most important)

Copy the web link where you found it and the date on which you accessed it

Copy any other identifying information (if it is a published research piece for example, it will have a journal name volume and issue and page. If it is a magazine article it will have a name and month or week of publication).

If you do this you will always be able to trace back the source of your content.

How to use other people's content legally and ethically

Here is the key advice from the copyright service

"Criticism or review"

Quoting parts of a work for the purpose of criticism or review is permitted provided that:

The work has been made available to the public.

The source of the material is acknowledged.

The material quoted must be accompanied by some actual discussion or assessment (to warrant the criticism or review classification).

The amount of the material quoted is no more than is necessary for the purpose of the review.

News reporting

Using material for the purpose of reporting current events is permitted provided that:

The work is not a photograph.

The source of the material is acknowledged.

The amount of the material quoted is no more than is necessary for the purpose."

(Here is the link if you want to read more https://www.copyrightservice.co.uk/copyright/p27_work_of_others)

So, acknowledge your source, use other people's content reasonably and comment on it, don't just paste it, thank the other person or organisation for their work and provide a link if appropriate.

Lesson 5 Getting a debate going 1

As we have already seen it is important to get your personality across to your readers. If you are using content from other people it is easy to do this. Say what you think, it is as simple as that. Here are some examples

Say

- This is good
- This is good and I can add something to it
- This is partly good but I disagree on this point
- This is good and you can find out more (give a link)
- This is good, this is what I do and if you come to me I can help you.

Next comes a template to help you do this.

Lesson 5 The Template

TEMPLATE 4 USING WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

"I was browsing the web the other day and came across this excellent post (by Andie Mitchell she says if you've been on a binge then you can get depressed and end up have 'do nothing' days she says getting back to 'do something' days can sometimes mean starting with just a little thing, even just taking a shower might be the most you can manage but at least you will have accomplished something.)

That can be good advice, and I know I have seen clients who feel like this, But it misses something (or I would add in something). Often you just have to get on with things. So I would say (add your advice)

You can read more from (Andie on this subject at <http://www.andiemitchell.com/2015/08/13/help-for-binge-eating-eliminate-nothing-days/>). Thanks for raising this (Andie) we all know how days like that can feel

PractisePlus

Update your skills

14

This week's assignment

Find three content sources and set up your files. Make a blog post using this content and the template.

PractisePlus

Update your skills

15

Next time

Following the famous: how to use celebrity blogs, sites and comments

About the course creator

This course was authored by Ann Jaloba.

Ann has been a full-time hypnotherapist for 7 years and has seen thousands of clients. Before this she was a health journalist and worked on award winning journals for the Royal College of Nursing, including the best-selling weekly Nursing Standard. She is the former editor of the The Hypnotherapy Journal. Her books include FirstDays: how to set up a therapy business and stay sane, designed to help new therapists through that tricky first year in business. She co-edited The Hypnotherapy Handbook, a comprehensive guide to the major client issues in hypnotherapy which features chapters by many of the UK's leading hypnotherapists. She edited the The Pocket Book of Stress Busters, a simple and powerful set of techniques to help anyone cope. And she has just edited and published The Hypnotherapy Experts, niche strategies for A list hypnotherapists. She is currently writing a self help book for nurses. Ann is an accredited (NCFE recognised) supervisor and supervises and

coaches

BOOKS TO INSPIRE YOU

PractisePlus

Update your skills

17